

HOW TO: sell your trans film
in Hollywood for 1 billion $$$$$$$$

- 1. Make sure there's always a cis character on screen so that you have an excuse to explain stuff to the audience.
- 2. Make sure there's an unmistakable moral lesson, preferably preaching tolerance.
- 3. Make it diverse but not TOO diverse so it's obvious who the movie should be marketed to.
- 4. Make sure the movie is really sad.
- 5. Absolutely NO fucking unless it's extremely traumatizing.

TRANSSEXUALS: A TAXONOMY

IN THE MEDIA

- always doing hormone injections while sad string music plays

- Alienated from the world w/ no trans community

- Can't get laid

- Always staring in the mirror b/c they hate their bodies

IN REALITY

- always illegally sharing prescription medication like a boss

- Never go anywhere without 5 other people who have the same haircut & mental illness(es)

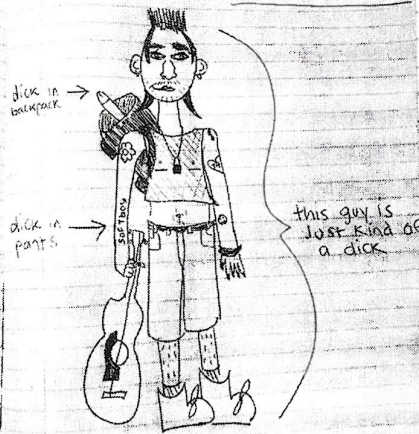

- Get so much pussy they literally have to go to the hospital for overdosing on pussy

- Always staring in the mirror to figure out how HRT has changed the shape of their ass

It's time we stop stereotyping trans people out of ignorance... and START stereotyping trans people out of familiarity with their bullshit antics

TRANSMASC: TRIPLE THE DICK, TRIPLE
THE DICK JOKES

It always amazes me that so much of trans filmmaking is so serious when, like, "Has an adult life with adult problems but has to go through puberty...again!" literally sounds like the premise of a Will Ferrell movie

It's wild to me that trans people get represented as a demographic who "can't take a joke" when we are, in reality, disproportionately responsible for some of the most edgy, disgusting, and alienating humor out there.
